THE FORTUNES OF WAR TURN AGAINST TEUTONS

British Sink German Raiders—Huns Retreating in France—Italy Checks the Enemy

ENGLISH DESTROY 11 GERMAN SHIPS

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 3.—A German commerce raider and five armed trawlers have been sunk by British destroyers in Scandinavian waters.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The admiralty announces that certain British forces have been engaged in the Channel, an arm of the North Sea between Sweden and Denmark, and that prisoners are being brought in. No further information is yet at hand.

An official statement issued by the admiralty says that ten armed patrol craft, in addition to the German auxiliary cruiser, which was equipped with six-inch guns, were destroyed.

GERMANS RETREAT ON TWO FRONTS

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The French are advancing between the Oise Canal and the region of Corbeny and have reached the south bank of the Ailette River, the war office announces.

The Germans have retreated to the north bank of the river. The bridges across the Ailette were destroyed by the Germans. Since October 23 the French have captured 422 guns and 724 machine guns.

ITALY NOW CHECKS COMMON ENEMY

ROME, Nov. 2.—General Cadorna's army is now fully prepared to meet the onslaught of the combined German and Austro-Hungarian forces, according to advices received today from the Italian front.

The Italian fortifications extend along the west bank of the Tagliamento River from the Felio to the Adriatic Sea with only the swollen stream separating them from the enemy.

Another German retirement is under way in France. For the second time within eight months, allied pressure has caused a withdrawal of the Teutonic line on the western front.

The Germans have retreated from the hill front of the Chemin-des-northeast of Solsons and south of Laon, according to Berlin.

ACCIDENT KILLS 12 U. S. SAILORS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Navy Department has been advised that a steamer of the American battleship in home waters has been sunk and its crew of twelve men are missing. It is believed the men are lost.

TELEPHONE STRIKE IS UP TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President P. J. McNulty of the Electrical Workers' Brotherhood, wires strike today to resume work or their charter would be revoked.

McNulty stated that he was opposed to government ownership in principle, but if the government followed Mediator Reed's suggestion and seized the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company as a war measure, McNulty would co-operate with the government.

The question of government seizure of telephone lines in five Pacific coast states, in order to end the dispute between officials of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and their employees and to assure uninterrupted telephone service, rested today in the hands of President Wilson.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC STRIKE TROUBLES

Rumors of Sinn Fein Outbreak

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Rumors were afloat in London today of Sinn Fein outbreaks in Ireland, but there are not confirmed. A Belfast message to the Central News says the reports are groundless so far as the north of Ireland is concerned.

MARTINEZ FULL OF PRUNES

A big shipment of prunes was sent out of this city today by John S. Sweet & Sons. The shipment was consigned to the California Prune and Apricot Growers, Inc., and consisted of thirty tons. One of the features of the transaction is that the prunes were all grown in this county and the prunes were done chiefly by women and school children of Northridge.

Lavinia Young leaves today for Texas, where she will join the aviation school of Uncle Sam.

Food plagues in Richmond are expected to go far beyond the 3,500 minimum, according to Ira Vaughn, chairman of the local committee.

All Are Invited to Sunday School

The significant and unique request from our highest state official, Governor Stephens, that every one who possibly can observe "Go-to-Sunday School" Sunday, deserves the attention of every citizen, young and old. In line with our Executive's proclamation, the Ministers Union of this city, respectfully urges that every family in Richmond should heed this call, and as far as it can be done, rally to a universal Sunday School attendance of November 4th.

The churches of every name will have open doors and be ready to welcome all who may attend.

Signed
HENRY KENDALL SANBORN,
President Minister's Union
JOHN GILLETTE, Secretary.

Pythian Sisters Hold Convention

Pythian Sister of the Bay cities convened at Pythian Castle yesterday afternoon and held one of the most successful conventions of its history.

District Deputy Marie Ripley opened the convention at 2 o'clock. The Temples of the district exemplified the different parts of the work in honor of Supreme Chief Lily Samuels and Grand Chief Mrs. Etta Bentz. The supreme chief complimented the district very highly for the fine way in which they conducted the work.

A supper was served at 6 o'clock by the Contra Costa Temple, by an able committee with Ella Bauman, as chairman. Later in the evening a large class initiation was held. The supreme and grand chiefs addressed the assembly on lodge work, Red Cross and other interesting subjects. In behalf of district No. 7, the grand chief presented the supreme chief with a beautiful bouquet. Then Sister C. Stedley presented the grand chief with a fine art picture in behalf of district No. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stiver left last night for a week's visit at Mt. Hermon.

Attorney Wilbur Pierce was named to head the draft contingent to American Lake tomorrow.

Galt of New York, founders of the Camp Fire organization, are on the Pacific Coast lecturing on Camp Fire work. Mrs. Galt conducted the grand Council fire and started the big building sticks together. Dr. Galt gave the girls an instructive talk on the conservation of food.

There were two hundred and fifty girls present from about the bay section, and made a beautiful sight as they did the impressive ceremonial work. After the candle lighting ceremony three girls, dressed in the Minute girls' costume, marched in and placed flags around the candles.

Americans Swim in French Mud

WITH AMERICAN ARMY
IN FRANCE, November 3.—A heavy downpour of rain, beginning at noon on Friday, hindered the activity of the artillery in the portion of the French front where the American battalions are on duty and converted the back areas into seas of mud.

WINERY IS RUSHED

Train load upon train load of wine is being shipped in an unceasing stream to the winery behind the hills yesterday. The season for the wine grapes is at its height and the largest winery in the country is strained to its capacity in handling it all.

MEXICAN SCRAPPY JAILED

One Jose Fernandez after a vain endeavor to drown his soul or thirst with all sorts of double and tripple extracts felt real scrapy and tried to pick a fight with everyone he met, and when he was taken into custody by an officer he tried to prove the fighting abilities of his race, but to no avail. He was locked up without further ceremony.

Poor Silly Girl Is Now in Detention

The little foolish girl, who a few weeks ago was put on probation for writing improper letters, and running after soldiers, was arrested Friday night and taken to Martinez yesterday. The warrant was sworn out by Rev. Galt as the speaker of the mother and grandfather, who state she has persisted in running after soldiers and carry on correspondence with them, for all their efforts to the contrary. The girl, Annie Chavis, who is but 14, was arrested at the T. and D. theater after she had intimated that unless she was allowed to do as she pleased she would leave home and go to work. She was taken to the Detention Home at Martinez. There are a few more silly girls such as her whose actions are being investigated, and who will share her fate unless they behave themselves.

FUTURE CAN BE JUDGED LARGELY BY THE PAST

Marvelous Achievement of Richmond in Ten Years Means City of 100,000
in Near Future

From nothing but mud flats and wheat fields a dozen years ago to a city of 25,000 inhabitants now, second in the great state of California, in the tonnage shipments of manufactured products, a modern and up-to-date city with elegant business blocks, splendid schools and churches, and thousands of nice homes, a transcontinental shipping point, 150 miles of paved streets and walks, every business enterprise imaginable, and a payroll of a million dollars a month from industrial enterprises, is Richmond's past and present record.

Nothing in the West can equal it, or come anywhere near equalling it. Why, then, have we not every good reason to aspire to, and believe in, the growth here within the next dozen years of a metropolitan city of 100,000 or more. We certainly have every right and every incentive to believe so, and we do believe so, all of us, and that is not all, either. We are going to make it come true; every bit of it.

Great manufacturing industries rear their tall chimneys high into the blue skies here, but their smoke goes off over the bay and passes on out at the Golden Gate, which is always open, and thence on over toward Honolulu and the Orient, leaving behind, however, the millions of golden dollars which flow in here from all parts of the world in exchange for millions of tons of industrial products.

Did you ever buy a railroad ticket over the Southern Pacific or Santa Fe railroads, anywhere in the United States? Well, a little of the price trickled back here to Richmond, to maintain the great Santa Fe shops and terminals, ferries to San Francisco, and the small army of men they employ.

Did you ever buy a Pullman sleeping car ticket? A few cents out of it found its way back here to Richmond, to keep up the big Pullman Co. Car Shops and its six hundred employees.

Ever stop to think where all these millions of auto drivers and riders all over the country get their gasoline? Where the railroads and steamships get their fuel oil? Where the poor man gets his kerosene? Where the glycerine, the verolene, vaselin and a lot of other loans, and fats come from, as well as the crude oils, medical oils and oils for your internal machinery? Well, friend, they all come from Richmond, where the great Standard Oil company has expended the small sum of twenty millions of dollars in its plant, the largest of its kind in the world, and employs 3,000 men, and pays them half a million a month out of this money that keeps pouring in from all over creation.

Did you know that the great DuPont Powder works are suburban to Richmond, and another powder plant nearly as big, working hundreds and hundreds of men day and night on explosives that are helping very materially to set off those pinwheels under the Kaiser's coat tails?

Did you know that Richmond has three immense porcelain plants and that they are the only ones this side of New Jersey? Did it ever occur to you when you sat down to dinner in Oskosh, Hong Kong or Ocalusa that the plates and other dishes in front of you were made in Richmond, California? Well, they are.

And so it goes down the line of fifty other factories, and the real nice thing about it all is the fact that this million a month payroll is all outside money, rolling in from everywhere in the world, yet spent and put into instant local circulation right here in Richmond. Think all this over and you will see that our claim for a metropolitan city here in ten years or less of 100,000 or over is a conservative estimate. We mean a whole lot, and that same And if you want any further information or data, write this paper, or any, really man whose advertisement appears herein, and it will be forthcoming at once, free of charge, complete, illustrated, and intensely interesting.

Richmond Club Busy Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be business day at the Richmond Club and will be a busy session. Work for the coming month will be arranged for. Mrs. R. L. Stout will read a paper on "Coming Events" while Mrs. J. T. Conwell will read the "Club Paper." All members are urged to be present as other important business will come before the club and all members are requested to bring their old newspapers along, which the club will dispose of for its own benefit.

THINKOGRAPHS

A CHAT ON IMMORTALITY

As this is Sunday, and with this dreadful war still going on and getting worse all the time, and the constant dispatches telling us of the millions who have been killed in battle, and now also that we are facing the thought and realization that probably thousands of our own beloved sons who are marching so gallantly to the front will never come back, it is a good time to pause for a few moments in this wild scramble called life, and give thought to what, if anything, is to come after it. I am not going to write a sermon, or a long dissertation upon your sins of commission or omission, or anything of that sort, but I want to call your attention to a few rational things I have been reading this week and doing some thinking about.

One of the News readers, an old time friend, too, brought in a few days ago a long article for publication in which he attacked all religion and undertook to prove that there was no God, no hereafter and no anything else except just what we see and have and go through in the few minutes we are allotted to live on this earth. I did not publish it, although it was well written and interesting, from his point of view, for the reason that I could not agree at all with the doctrine, and it hurt me to put out in print something I feared would do more harm than good, and so I told my friend that even if we were all foolish to go to church, and read the Bible, and follow certain creeds and sects, and hope for immortality, still it was quite likely that the good accomplished, in moral and other ways, more than offset what he termed our foolishness.

The American magazine has offered cash prizes for the best article on the subject, "What Comes After This Life," and in the November number there is a fine article by one who signs himself "A Father Who's Son Has Gone to War," and I wish all the readers of this paper could get that magazine and read that article. I am going to cite just a few of the many good points he scored in it in favor of an immortality.

He is a wealthy man, a manufacturer, and had always been extremely skeptical of anything in the way of a future life, having been taught that way by his studies at college. His boy, whom he worships, enlists and goes to France, and the horror of never meeting that boy again, either in this life or the future, so prayed upon his mind that he went to searching every book he could find which treated the subject of immortality in any way, and after doing this for a long time, and pondering constantly upon it, and trying in every possible way to reason it out, he finally is convinced in his own mind that a future life is a certainty, that God is the Great Intelligence back of it all, and that man is immortal. Following are some short quotations from the article:

Those days of doubt were trying days. I came out of them with nothing that could be called religious faith, but with certain principles which served me through most of my active life. One thing, I said to myself, was clear—Duty. Whether there was a God or not, it was still a man's business to be a man, and not an animal. The promise of reward or the fear of punishment had nothing to do with the case. A man owed it to his own self-respect to be as clean as he could, and as honest, and to do his best to leave the world a little better than he found it.

And yet—yet there were times when the world seemed a curiously empty place. Times when, as Clifford said, I felt the loneliness of one to whom the Great Companion is dead. Times when I saw in the faces of other men a peace, a satisfaction, a calm expectancy, that was no part of my experience. At such times I felt a craving hard to analyze. Indeed, I do not know that I ever did analyze it, or rightly understand what it was. I know now. Ever since my boy walked down to the recruiting station and signed his name, I have known. It was the hunger after a vision into the future; the outreaching of a soul desolate for its God.

I recently heard a British army officer quoted as saying that he had never seen a single man in the trenches who questioned immortality. Face to face with death, no man can convince himself that death is the end. Even Huxley, who in his strong manhood, when his pulses were leaping, could weigh calmly the thought of extinction, found the Great Hope forcing itself into his soul as he drew nearer the end.

The more I thought about it, the harder it became for me to conceive of this universe without some Intelligence behind it. I remember that the same stumbling block had stood across my path in those college days when all my faith seemed to be slipping away. I fancy that most hardheaded men will understand what I mean. We know from our own experience that things in this world don't "get themselves done." A load of brick and stone, dumped onto a corner lot, does not build itself into a house; an armful of wire and iron, chucked onto a floor, does not make itself into a dynamo and begin sending out currents of electricity. Nothing is accomplished, in our experience, unless some one with intelligence directs its accomplishment.

So with the universe behind it, fashioning it, directed it, stood the Great Intelligence. It must be there; for, if it were not, then the universe had created something greater than itself. For I have intelligence. Could an unintelligent universe bring forth intelligence? Could the less create the greater? Was it not more logical, more reasonable, to believe that my intelligence is a part of the Great Intelligence, and therefore not doomed by the grave? It was a great hour for me when I saw that clearly. Did my gray matter create me? Or am I what I seem to myself to be, a something that organizes and uses my brain? Just as a world that made itself is harder for me to accept than a world made by Intelligence, so a brain that made me seems to me harder to picture than a brain which I—an Intelligence—inhabit and organize and use. For, after all, what is the brain? Only a collection of little gray cells? Does each cell then have a little mind of its own, a miniature personality? If so, how do the different cells get together and gear, each to contribute its separate bit of brain, so that the aggregate contribution will result in these sentences that I am writing.

Which is harder to conceive, the little gray cells getting together by themselves and writing "Paradise Lost," or cells being marshaled and used by a higher power, an Intelligence, to do its bidding? Which is more incredible, a violin played by a musician, or a violin that builds itself, tightens up its own strings, and plays its own tunes.

I am not my brain; I am God. Where I lived before this world, I do not know; where I shall live afterward I cannot even imagine. But that I shall live, and not as a mere colored spirit, but as a Personality, as Myself, of that I feel as sure to-day as I feel sure of anything in the world. Only two explanations are possible; and I accept the more reasonable one, as I accept the more reasonable explanation of all other problems. I do not need to dwell on the joy that comes to me with that conviction. There entered into my soul such a peace, such a calmness in the face of any possible contingency that I felt myself an entirely different man. The thought of my boy was still with me constantly, but not as a source of dread. It was as though I had entrusted him to a great Friend, for the more I thought about God the more he appealed to me as such.

Only a few of the fault finders are good enough to draw pay as critics.

The trouble with many specialists in business is that they won't work.

A good many men are always starting something and never finish anything.

People hope for the best a good many times when they know they won't get it.

The average man thinks a satisfactory income is about twice what he is making.

A married man soon gets to feeling like an attorney whose objections are always being overruled.

There are a number of loafers who spend their spare time urging the importance of industry.

While the Salvation Army does much good, it can never convince the world that a tambourine is a musical instrument.

A lot of people crow about how exceedingly interesting real life is, but the fact is real life isn't half as thrilling as real life.

When a man intimates he is going to tell you something for your own good, that is a sign you are going to hear something disagreeable.

GREAT ENTERPRISES AT POINT RICHMOND

The Government and city dredgers are busy excavating the inner harbor and channels and building up retaining walls, behind which they will pump the mud from the harbor bottom. The rip-rapping of the bulkheads and seawalls have been completed for the most part and if the work continues at this rate the huge freighters will be sailing up to the foot of Cutting boulevard in the near future.

Further along the shore, the Blake Bros. and Hunsinger Quarries are grinding out rock day and night, loading them on huge floats and used in construction there and for the rip-rapping of our seawalls. Much of this rock has been used in the construction of many buildings in Richmond and every year much more will be used.

The Santa Fe Shops have considerably increased the number of men employed and to protect them from injury and possible death have constructed a large viaduct over their tracks and now the men pass to and from in perfect safety. Besides that they have gone to enormous expense in building up and extending their plant so that now it is one of the most up-to-date and complete repair works on the Pacific Coast.

At Winhaven one of the largest wineries in the world is crushing the grapes, trainloads at a time, to furnish the thirsty throats of the nation (and nations) with wines and grape juice.

Many new enterprises and stores are coming and building continually, increasing the population and making more business, which in turn brings prosperity and happiness to Point Richmond and those love Richmond in central and its West Side in particular.

Mrs. Irma Lyman, of Ceres, is visiting relatives here for a few weeks.

The many friends of E. Gehart will be glad to know that he is daily improving from his recent illness.

Mrs. Bliss and little son, of Placer City, are visiting Mrs. Bliss' father, Richard Maynard, for a short time.

A baby boy arrived at the home of Arthur Brown yesterday. The child and mother are doing well.

Union Church—Pythian Castle Fifth Street near Macdonald Avenue. Frank R. Kennell, minister. 7:30 sermon by the Rev. George Dorrington of Berkeley. 5:30 Sunday school.

German Evangelical Church—The services will be conducted by Rev. A. Bahusen, in Moose Hall, 615 Macdonald Avenue near 6th Street. Special Reformation services Sunday morning at 10:45. All German-speaking people are invited to attend this service.

Point Library Attracts Children

An eager crowd of children were in attendance at the West Side Library, Saturday morning, to hear Mrs. Kennell tell some of the old fairytales, which she did in her usual charming manner.

It is hoped that the Story Hour may become a regular feature at the West Side Library.

Quite a number of new books were added to the library this month, among them a new story by Kathleen Norris and one by the ever popular writer of western fiction, B. M. Bower.

The Thrifty Person is Often Spoken of as the Lucky Man

Most generally, though, you will find him always "saying word" and saying it.

The prospector whose pick strikes pay ore is said to be lucky, but he is always digging while other miners are playing pool or poker.

Deposit a portion of each week's savings with this bank and you will be lucky too.

Edgerton Favors U. S. Control

President Max Thelen of the California State Railroad Commission yesterday concluded his testimony before the Joint Committee on Interstate Commerce at the Palace Hotel, in San Francisco. He adhered to his views that the National Government should control the financing of railway capital stock, bonds and so forth; but that there should be no Federal ownership or management of the railroads themselves.

This opinion was fully traversed by Commissioner E. O. Edgerton, who followed President Thelen, and who declared himself in favor of complete and immediate Federal control of all the railways in the country.

Snappy Program at the T. & D. Today

An excellent vaudeville and picture program has been procured for today at the Richmond Theatre by Manager Dan Reardon. The vaudeville comes direct from the largest circuits and included a pretty girl act directed by the Shet Sisters, with good music and singing, a comedy aerial act by Ladies and Lallies, Lily Lewis presents a novelty change act, and "The Black and White" are the stars with the best from the Casino Theatre. The picture program includes a feature with Taylor Holmes, once a well known comedian of the speaking stage, entitled "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship." This is a very satisfactory comedy-drama and with the Pathe News which is also showing, it helps to complete a very good program.

FOOD PLEDGE

This Country is the Best
Home for the Food Pledge

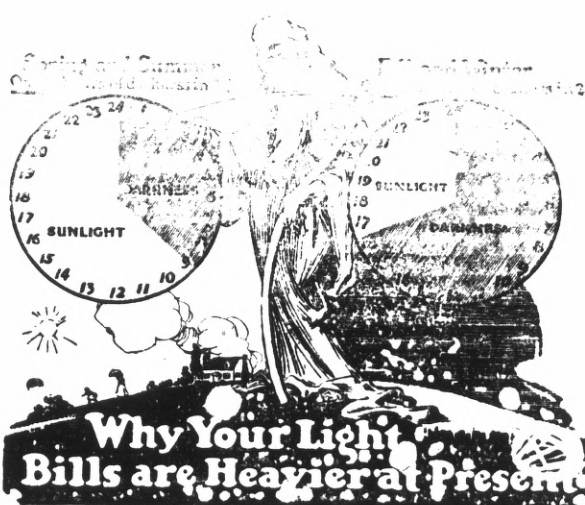

The Food Pledge is a simple, practical plan for saving food. It is a pledge to save every scrap of food, to use it in the most economical way, and to donate the surplus to the needy. It is a pledge to save the food that is wasted every day, and to use it for the benefit of the community. It is a pledge to save the food that is wasted every day, and to use it for the benefit of the community. It is a pledge to save the food that is wasted every day, and to use it for the benefit of the community.

If you have not already signed the Pledge received in the mail or presented by our local committee, clip the Pledge published in another column and forward it at once to the offices of the U. S. Food Administration in San Francisco. Immediately upon receipt of your signed pledge the Food Administration will mail to you a card which makes you an official member of the U. S. Food Administration, and gives you a Kitchen Card which shows in detail how you may aid the Government in its fight for the preservation of Democracy.

The Administration is not asking the men and women of California to go hungry, but urges that the people of California serve our fighting force by saving the elimination of waste, and by placing a strict pledge upon their conscience to become a part of the fighting force of our country as much as though they were waiting for the word to "go over the top." So far, this city has more than made good, but we must go even further and turn in to the offices of the U. S. Food Administration in San Francisco more than the number of Pledge Cards expected of us.

It is imperative that every woman in this city continue her efforts up to the eleventh hour, so that when the final reports are made by the San Francisco office to Mr. Hoover in Washington, it will be shown that there is not a city or town in California that has not made good.

The Kitchen Card which accompanies the U. S. Food Administration Card is a sure guide to the housewife as to just what she must do toward the conservation of food, the chief features of which are: why we must send more wheat, why we must send more meat, why we must send butter and milk, and why we must send sugar. It must be remembered by the housewife that every flag that flies opposite the German one is by proxy an American flag, and that the armies fighting in our defense must be fed. This is the job of the United States. It is your job. Your neighbor's job. If you have not already signed the Food Pledge, do it now. A delay of even a day may mean the improper feeding of thousands of fighters. DO IT NOW.
